

Intersections

Volume 2004 | Number 20

Article 3

2004

From the Editor

Tom Christenson

Follow this and additional works at: <http://digitalcommons.augustana.edu/intersections>

Augustana Digital Commons Citation

Christenson, Tom (2004) "From the Editor," Intersections: Vol. 2004: No. 20, Article 3.

Available at: <http://digitalcommons.augustana.edu/intersections/vol2004/iss20/3>

This Editorial is brought to you for free and open access by Augustana Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Intersections by an authorized administrator of Augustana Digital Commons. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@augustana.edu.

an e-mail to John.Stumme@elca.org. You may also find it on the ELCA DCS Web site, but since it is more than a hundred pages long, you may prefer to get a printed copy instead of downloading it and printing it yourself.

Living in God's amazing grace,

Arne Selbyg

Director, ELCA Colleges and Universities

From the Editor

This issue of INTERSECTIONS once again features a variety of voices: young and old, angry and encouraging, prophetic and hopeful. All embody the same assumption—that Christians engaged in thinking and educating will ask hard questions and look at things in new ways. How does a Christian raise concerns about militarism and the new “imperialism” the U.S. is manifesting around the world? What issues will a Lutheran law school raise about the training of a new generation of attorneys? What will Lutheran colleges communicate to their undergrads about vocation and what difference will this end up making to them? I like these questions and think they are part of who we are as Lutheran institutions. If we are faithful to such questions we show how the Lutheran tradition of faithful criticism is alive in our midst.

Tom Christenson

tchrste@capital.edu